Explaining the Job Role and Compensation

Explaining the Next Steps in the Process

SALES PERSONALITIES:

SALES LEADER, SALES PERSON, CLOSER, PERSISTENT

Interview questions:

1. Have you ever failed in closing a sale because you talked too much? Describe the situation.

Sales personalities with high Persuasive / Convincing (60+) are comfortable talking to and building rapport with others. This can be great for creating relationships from a cold start. However, they may talk more than listen. They may assume the customer's needs rather than asking qualifying questions and listening to the answers. They may over-explain, focus on their presentation and miss cues from the customer. Their high Motivation / Drive (60+) give them confidence and capability of taking control and redirecting the conversation.

2. This position requires outbound calling. Can you explain to me what that means?

The candidate should have a firm grasp on the role, especially cold calling. This requirement for the role can be hard for most people. Although, it may seem it is self explanatory, many candidates do not understand outbound sales or cold calling. Personality traits, skills, experience, and continuing training will determine the success of the new hire.

3. In sales, rejection is inevitable. How do you keep yourself upbeat and motivated for the next dial after hearing "No" repeatedly?

Sales personalities with high Persuasive / Convincing (60+) combined with high Motivation / Drive (60+) are energetic and confident. Meaning they may have the capability to shake off rejection and keep pushing forward. However, call reluctance is a possibility. It is important they understand the role and how they will handle obstacles. Roleplaying and training can assist in overcoming objections and handling rejection better.

4. What is your process when following up with prospects?

5. Can you tell me about a time when you convinced a reluctant customer to make a purchase? How did you do it?

6. What attracts you to a sales position?

7. Who in life do you look up to for wisdom? Why? What have you learned?

8. Imagine a Saturday morning. You get to do whatever you want. Describe that day.

9. Name a few of your most important goals and dates to achieve them.

10. Name a few important determining factors when selecting your next career.

*It is recommended that roleplaying, coaching and training continue after hire.

CUSTOMER SERVICE PERSONALITIES:

KNOWLEDGEABLE, NURTURER, ORGANIZER, PERFECTIONIST, RESEARCHER

Interview questions:

1. Tell me about an experience where your manager gave you a task. However, they did not provide guidelines. What did you do? How did you handle the situation?

Customer Service personalities with high Thorough / Compliance (60+) are comfortable working within boundaries and knowing the expectations. They are logical and quality-focused. However, if not given rules, processes, and guidelines, this will push them out of their comfort zone because they will not be able to judge their work based on your expectations. They like to do things right and may ask many questions to prepare for any situation.

2. This position requires outbound calling. Can you explain to me what that means?

The candidate should have a firm grasp on the role, especially cold calling. Although it may seem self-explanatory, many candidates do not understand outbound sales or cold calling. You can determine success by personality traits, skills, experience, and continuing training. Customer Service personalities with high Persuasive / Convincing (60+) are comfortable talking to and building rapport with others. However, if they have low Motivation / Drive (<59), they will struggle to stay on the phone. They lack the outgoing confidence needed for this task.

3. Have you ever dealt with an emotional client? How did you deal with them?

Customer Service personalities with high Persuasive / Convincing (60+) and high Structure /Routine (60+) are people-oriented. They are empathetic, calm, and possess good communication skills. They can be sensitive to situations that may affect their work.

4. Tell me about a situation where you bent the rules for a customer. What was the outcome?

5. Have you been in a situation where you needed to deliver bad news? Tell me about it.

6. If you needed to refuse the request of a customer or co-worker, would you be able to tell them no? How would you handle the situation?

7. What would your manager say is a skill you need to improve?

8. Describe a time of change at work. How did you handle it?

9. What's your communication style? What way do you prefer to communicate with others?

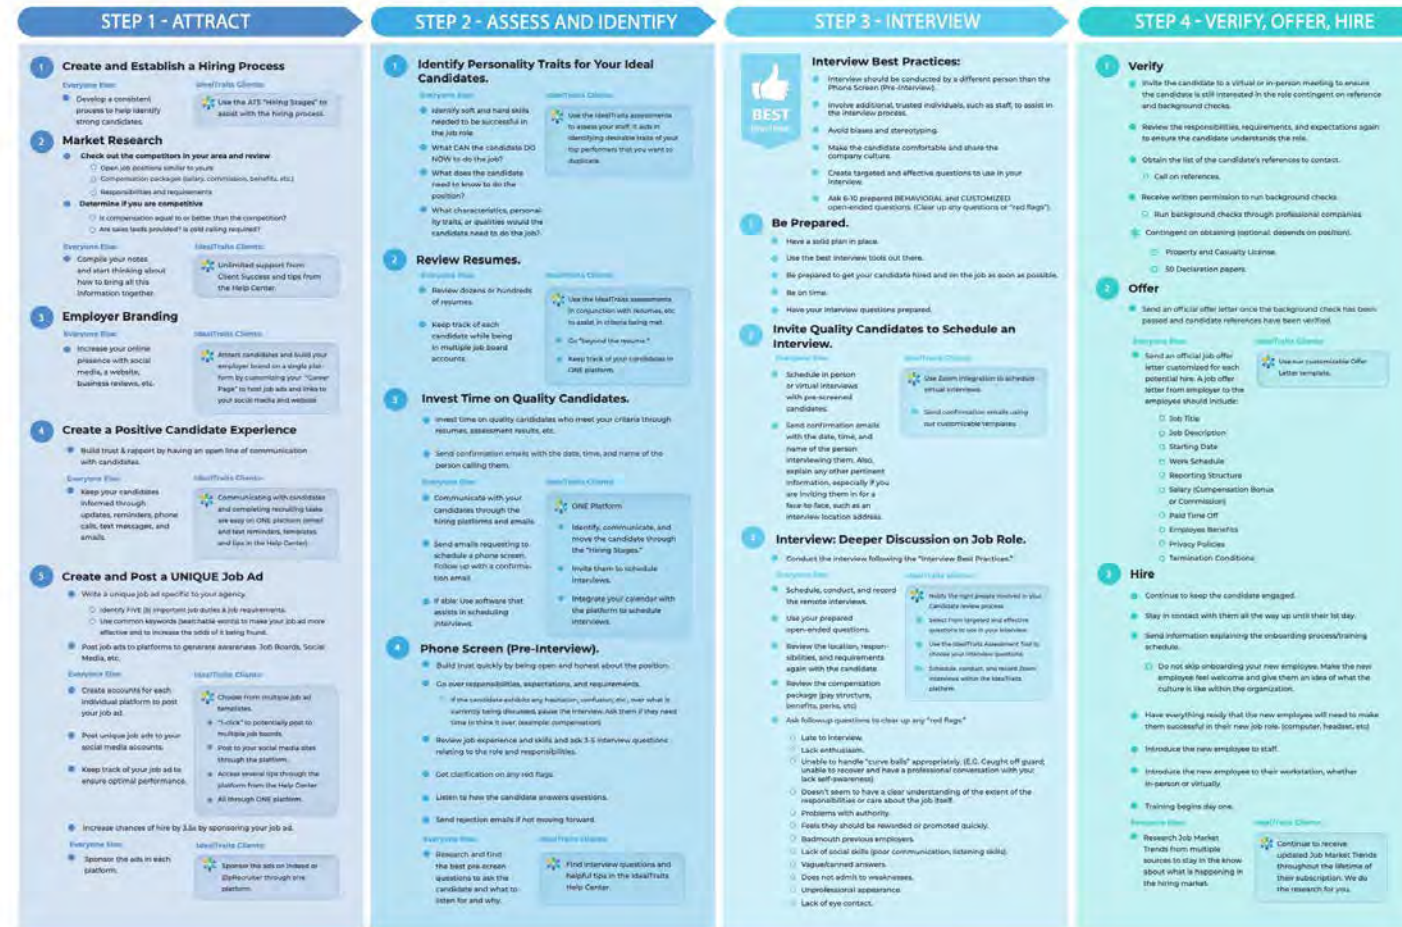

10. What would you do if you didn't know anyone at a party? Networking event?

*It is recommended that roleplaying, coaching and training continue after hire.

- Candidate engagement
- What works for you?

Market Statistics

Cons of Referrals

- Pay a bonus to the employee
- Biased Recommendations
- Decreased Workforce Diversity
- Potential to lose both employees if one decides to leave
- May not put the referral through the same process you would other candidates, which could cause a bad hire.

Pros of Referrals

- The cost-per-hire of employee referrals is $1,000 less on average than other hiring sources
- The average time to hire of employee referral is 13+ days as opposed to 42+ days
- 88% of employers rate employee referral programs as the best source of applicants
- Employee referrals 25% more profitable

Cons of using Job Boards

- Depending on the job role, may receive a LOT of applications
- No control over who applies
- No guarantee you will find your ideal candidate
- Missing out on passive candidates

Pros of using Job Boards

- Encourage you to open your mind to the “ideal candidate”
- Accessible 24 hours a day, 7 days a week
- Many job boards to choose such as General to niche specialty roles
- Able to sponsor & market directly on the boards of your choice

Cons of using Recruiters

- Higher cost
- The “guarantee” has a time limit.
- Need to find the right recruiting agency that works for you and your needs
- Chance for miscommunication between the recruiter, candidates, and you
- A recruiter works for several customers, including your competitors.

Pros of using Recruiters

- Filter out unqualified candidates
- Connections to passive candidates
- You don't need to get emotionally invested
- Frees up your time to run your business
- Potential for higher quality candidates

Cons of recruiting through social media

- At the mercy of the sites algorithm.
- Current employees will know you're hiring
- Coming up with the right hashtags for the target audience can take research
- Takes time to search for qualified candidates
- Need to log into several different sites to search

Pros of recruiting through social media

- 86% job seekers use social media
- Larger Audience; Further Reach.
- Share on your personal and professional pages; Tag friends and employees
- Post the link to the job ad and funnels directly into your ATS
- Potential candidates may be more willing to connect with you and discuss opportunities on social media sites like Facebook, Instagram, and YouTube due to the “relaxed” setting.

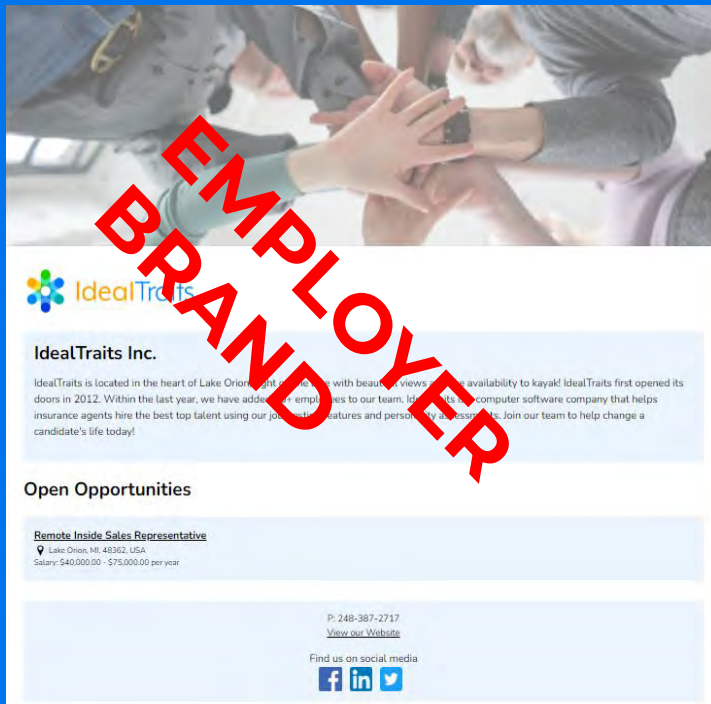

Cons of an employer online presence

- It's your responsibility to maintain
- Reputation
- Needs constant attention
- Candidates may not apply due to poor online reviews

Pros of an employer online presence

- Generate business leads
- Increases awareness of your business
- Showing your Company culture, mission, vision
- 47% of job seekers said company culture was the main reason for wanting to leave their current company for theirs.

Keeping an open mind
